

inting

ge is named after
main donor," said
's why this universi-
s really represented

le, Ky., Louis (proved as associate jus-16 to 1939, and was
it. Brandeis had ties sader for social and bl in the late 1870s.

illegals

e for their babies

at may affect access at the mary level. Some people
y be afraid of seeking medicare for their children.
een people live in fear, some-es they behave in ways that s not desirable."

EDICAID, Page A10

common.
McCarthy said yesterday she is waiting to hear from the city

glected in the city's two-year
push to complete arterial
REPAIRS, Page A10

DAILY NEWS PHOTO BY GALEN MOORE

Paul Pavone says developer Pulte Homes left out union laborers when it built Wellington Crossing, after the union supported special permits required for the project.

Local workers irked over firm's hirings

Union claims Pulte Homes failed to take on area laborers for Wellington Crossing

By Galen Moore
DAILY NEWS STAFF

WALTHAM — Contributions to local preservation projects won't get the builders of a Trapelo Road condominium complex onto Paul Pavone's good side.

Minnesota-based Pulte Homes has contributed $110,000 to local projects, including $5,000 most recently to restore a graveyard on state land recently added to the Beaver Brook Reservation. But the company left local workers out in the cold, said Pavone, a laborers union official, after buying rights to build Wellington Crossing, last year.

"We worked hard on that project," Pavone said, "and I didn't get a day's work for a laborer on the job over there."

Pavone, business manager of the Laborers International Local 560, said the union supported special permits needed for the project, based on an understanding with the site's original developer, Texas-based JPI.

Pulte land entitlement manager Ted Gowdy said if that is true, the newcomer didn't get the memo. "JPI never men-

al News

A2-4

Sports

B1-3

tery

A2

State & Nation

A5-6

ituaries

A10

Sudoku Puzzle

B7

BORAT

How this guy
cost people
their dignity.